February Pei Mate

Brisky's tall and slender with beautiful eyes, amber in color. She has a way of looking directly at you that makes you feel a connection to her. She's a horse coat and her coloring is unusual. It's kind of a red dilute sable. She's short on wrinkles but her looks are more 'classic', going back to the days when Shar-Pei were first brought to the US. She holds herself in a very confident manner. She's happy-go-lucky and loves to go for walks. On leash she can be a bit strong but she will listen to corrections and walk more mannerly. Brisky really loves people and we haven't seen her growl or bark at strangers or any volunteers. She even likes the vet.....except for nail trims; that's where she draws the line. She loves to play and will dig in the toy basket for the one she wants. She's not possessive with them and will allow you to take a toy from her, even though she can't see the fun in that. In a home-like setting (the OS office) Brisky is very well-behaved. She hasn't 'counter surfed' or grabbed things she shouldn't. No accidents either. She really wants to please you and is highly motivated to do just that. She loves dog treats and learns commands very quickly to earn a treat. She knows some basic commands and can learn so much more if given the opportunity. Brisky is a dog that would love a "job", whether it be obedience training, agility training, good citizenship, therapy dog or whatever would give her focus and fun. She prefers to be the center of attention, so a home where she can be the resident queen and not have to share with another dog would be perfect for her.
